MARRIED COOPER-GEORGE.

Miss Austene George, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Brand, was married at 8:30 Tuesday evening to Mr. John T. Cooper, the ceremony taking place in Immanuel Presbyterian church, in Los Angeles.

The pastor, Rev. Hugh K. Walker, officiated and the wedding music, including the popular wedding marches and "O Promise Me" were played by Mr. J. M. Spaulding. Mr. Brand giving the bride away.

Miss George was attired in a gown of white meteor crepe and duchess lace made with full court train, and wore a veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Leslie C. Brand, who served as matron of honor, wore brocade satin with trimmings of rose point lace and pearls. Pink orchids in the bodice. The bridesmaids, Miss Salie Utley, Miss Florence Clark, Miss Gladys Reynolds and Miss Jane B. McPeak, were dressed alike in pink satin crepe garnished with pearl passementerie, and carried maidenhair ferns.

There were two little flower girls—Mr. Brand's grandniece, Helen Thompson, and Kathleen Campbell, wearing pink tulle gowns and carrying baskets of Cecil Brunner roses to scatter in the pathway of the bride. Mr. Percy Cooper, brother of the groom, was the best man.

Mr. Cooper and his bride have planned a Northern trip on which they will be absent a month or more. On their return they will be at home in their new bungalow, 118 Woolcott street, Glendale.

Mr. Cooper is a Stanford graduate. Miss George is a graduate of Marlborough.—Express.

NEW LIVERY BARN.

Mr. A. P. Offutt wishes to announce the opening of his new livery and boarding stables, corner Fourth and Mary, which will be conducted under the name of Central Stables. Mr. F. J. Showalter, who is an experienced liveryman, will be in charge and the public will do well to see him when in need of first-class livery service.

In addition to a regular light livery they have a fine string of ladies and gents' saddlers. Special attention will be given day, week and monthly boarders. Prices will in all instances conform to first-class service. Mr. Offutt will continue to give his attention to his express and transfer business, which will be in connection with the stables. Patronage of the public is respectfully solicited. Home 812; Sunset 3143.

THE GRAMMAR SCHOOLS.

The enrollment at the Fourth street school is 183 and there is about the same number of pupils at the Sixth street building. This is not much in excess of the enrollment last year but will be increased later. There is the same force of teachers at the Fourth street building as there were last year. The Sixth street school while not overcrowded seems uncomfortably well filled compared with the parent school which has more rooms. The trustees have added a number of improvements to the Fourth street building. Sanitary drinking fountains have been installed, a new roof has been put on, the walls tinted and the court has been cemented, as has also the large basement, while additions have been made to the lavatories.

One of the new features of the school work introduced this year, will be the instruction in the art of sewing which will be given under the manual training head and will be taught to the first four classes. The special music lessons and drawing under the charge of Mrs. Anderson, are given two days in the week in each school, more time being necessarily given to the Fourth street school on account of the larger number of rooms, six being occupied there against four in the Sixth street building. Aside from these special instructions, the two branches mentioned are also taught by every teacher in their own departments.

Athletic work has hardly got under full headway, but both boys and girls have organized basket ball teams for both indoor and outdoor work.

The second meeting of the Fourth Street School Parent-Teachers association will be held on Oct. 29th at 3 p. m. These meetings are of great value to both parents and teachers and the next meeting will be of particular interest as it is to be addressed by Mrs. Catherine Pierce Wheat, her talk as a specialist being particularly addressed to parents. These meetings are held on the last Friday afternoon of every month. Mrs. R. A. Blackburn is president and Mrs. G. W. Allen secretary. The local associations are branches of the state organization.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Since last report four pupils have added their names to the roll, making now a total of 184. They are Mabel Rae Davis, Leo Wheeler, Pearl Harrison and Gladys Hamilton.

The morning rhetoricals are proving very successful. Among recent features may be mentioned a talk given by Owen Emery on Roosevelt's visit to the Southern states, having the interest of personal experiences. Ruth Farrell told some interesting anecdotes. Pearl Goode and Olive Quick gave a piano duet; Grace and Irene Grady, a piano and mandolin duet, while another piano duet was furnished by Frank Jackson and Luella Moore. The orchestra also gave two numbers. Barager, Davenport, Emery and Sprinkle contributed a vocal quartet.

The desks for the commercial department are now being put in place. Mrs. Carroll begins on Monday to furnish a cafeteria luncheon at the school.

School was dismissed on Monday that all might have an opportunity of seeing the president in Los Angeles.

The basket ball game which took place last Saturday the first of the season, was rather gratifying. The High School played with picked players from U. S. C. The university line-up was, Hall, center; Goodsell and Blair, forwards; and Henderson and Stine, guards.

The High School five were Taylor, center; Sprinkle and Emery, forwards; Stone and Bourne, guards.

In the second half Hall went out and Walton took his place at center. The game resulted in a victory for the High School, the score standing 34 to 13. The work by the Glendale team was very good. The three old boys, Taylor, Sprinkle and Emery, form a stronger combination than before and the new guards, Bourne and Stone are remarkably quick and effective.

The outlook for a successful season is very good.

The season for league games begins about November first.

Social and Personal

Something About People You Know

Mrs. Laura Stokesberry visited last week Mrs. B. S. Quick.

Mr. Dan Campbell is absent in San Francisco in attendance on the Masonic Grand lodge which opened on the 12th.

Dr. Tholen, who left Tropic a few weeks ago as a bachelor and returns as a benedict, is at home at his old address on Central avenue.

Rev. Edgar Levitt supplied the pulpit of the Universalist Church at Riverside last Sunday and tomorrow will preach at McKinley Hall on Grand avenue, between 7th and 8th streets, Los Angeles.

Mrs. C. M. Lund has been spending considerable time lately in Los Angeles at the California hospital where her little son, Ever Potter, has been undergoing treatment for appendicitis for the past fortnight. His condition has been quite serious, but he is now thought to be improving.

After resting for two weeks the J. N. J. C. met at "Kumfort Inn" Friday evening, Oct. 8th, and received much comfort in return for the "Cup Bee" with which they showered the charming and delighted hostess. After the usual feast they departed to rendezvous at Mountain View later.

Mr. J. M. McAlpine, who enjoys the distinction of having "motored" the first car over the Glendale and Eagle Rock railway, has resigned his position, thinking that after several years of continuous work he is entitled to a rest. He has made himself popular in the community and good wishes follow him.

Mr. T. E. Townsend and Mrs. Sarah E. Shields, who went North on the Santa Rosa Friday of last week, returned to Glendale Thursday last, after an enjoyable visit North. They report that although vessels both ways were filled to their lawful capacity, the accommodations were good and the voyage, particularly on the return trip, very enjoyable.

Among recent comers to Glendale are Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Hedges, recently of Long Beach. Dr. Hedges has made a considerable investment in Glendale property, having acquired the place on East Fourth street formerly owned by Mr. Jos. Nelson, and more recently by Mr. Gardiner. He is an old G. A. R. man and he and his wife will be welcome additions to our list of good citizens.

Mr. Fred Deal, who has been manager for the past three years and a half of the Sunset Telephone company in Glendale, has been appointed special agent for the company in Southern California. Their many friends in this vicinity will be glad to know that Mr. and Mrs. Deal will continue to make their home in Glendale, although Mr. Deal's duties will call him away much of the time.

Mr. Sperio has been appointed district manager in Mr. Deal's place.

Messrs. G. B. Woodberry and F. R. Sinclair, high officials of the city of Glendale, were served one day this week with "John Doe" and "Richard Roe" warrants to appear as witnesses in the case of H. C. Goodell and others vs. J. G. Kendall et al., a matter relating to the payment of assessments for street work on Brand Boulevard. We hear that the case has since been dismissed by stipulation. Mr. Doe and Mr. Roe are said to have money to burn as a result of witness fees received. Whether the latter detail figured in the stipulations we have not been informed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Talbott and their son Will returned Saturday last from a three weeks' camping trip. They traveled in a wagon up through New hall and the Soledad Pass to Palmdale, thence to Little Rock creek and around the base of the mountains skirting the desert to the summit near Cajon Pass from where they descended to the San Bernardino Valley and visited Riverside, Perris, Elsinore, Orange, Anaheim, etc., completing the circle by way of Los Angeles to starting point. They report a most enjoyable trip, weather and everything else being favorable to a "good time."

He "Did you hear the latest?" She "Why, there is nothing later or more up-to-date than those turnouts from the Central Stables, corner Fourth and Mary."

You take no chances when you buy a pair of shoes at Carney's shoe store. Satisfaction guaranteed and prices are low.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The opening meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club was a most enjoyable as well as a most profitable one. A fair-sized crowd gathered to greet the new officers as well as each other after the rest afforded by the summer months.

A large bowl of delicious cold punch claimed its full share of attention for the first half hour while the members and friends were gathering in. At the sound of the gavel, all eyes were fixed on our new president, Mrs. Robert Blackburn, who conducted the business meeting with most becoming dignity.

After the business meeting Mrs. Blackburn gave her address of welcome. In speaking of women's clubs she said there were three things to be considered; namely, the purpose of the club, what service it performs and what it does for the individual.

The purpose of any club and so of ours is to advance culture. The services performed by our club are legion, for we can point out the public library which was our child, nourished through its infancy, fostered through all its life and now the public library of the town. Also there is an increased interest in civic affairs, such as the preservation of trees, clearing of parkways, the erection of drinking fountains and many others. Then another service pointed out was the relief of poverty. The individual benefits derived from the club depend on ourselves—we must exercise our own powers and thus we may gain what we will.

The club affords scope for the development is attained through a united effort toward harmony, charity and that broad culture which comes through service to others.

When taking a perspective of the year's program, she mentioned the special days and the feast of good things that are waiting for those who attend the meetings.

In conclusion Mrs. Blackburn did not fail to mention the club house, which is the cherished dream of each member of the Tuesday Afternoon Club.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The evening service at this church will be a song service. A very interesting program is promised.

The subject of the morning sermon will be: "Is the Forgiveness of Sin Possible?"

The Woman's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Newton, 132 East Second street, on Tuesday afternoon. The home topic will be "The Mormons" and the foreign topic, "Persia."

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Next Sunday morning service the pastor will preach. The Ladies' Aid Society held a regular meeting Wednesday, Oct. 13th, at the church. The election of officers took place for the ensuing term. On Friday evening, October 22d, the church will give a banquet in Odd Fellows hall. There will be a program and a good social time is anticipated. Members of the church and congregation are given an urgent invitation to attend. The Young People's Society next Sunday evening will take up the subject of "Pilgrim's Progress." In some interesting part of the work. The society seems to be taking on new life since the fall months are here.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH.

The usual service of the Lord's Day, Holy Communion at 11 o'clock and a short address by the pastor, on the subject, "The Church, a House of Prayer." The Sunday school meets at 10 o'clock sharp in the Parish hall, corner Third and Jackson streets, and a class for adults will be carried on. New lessons are provided and parents are asked to assist their children in the proper study of their lessons. Every scholar above the primary grade should have a Bible at home, and should be able to find any reference in the Old and New Testament. Regular attendance and home study of the lessons will be insisted on, as being absolutely essential for successful work, and parents are asked to cooperate.

The first of the series of four dances to be given by the ladies of the Fountain Committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club this (Saturday) evening at I. O. O. F. hall, Glendale. A number of invitations have been issued, but any one wishing to attend will please call upon Mr. Scott Johnson, in the old telephone office on Glendale avenue, or apply to the committee. Tables will be provided for cards for guests who do not wish to dance. The cause is a good one. Let us have a full house.

MRS. E. C. WITHAM, Chairman.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

Last Saturday afternoon as Mrs. F. H. Merrill, of Sycamore Canyon, accompanied by Mrs. Carr was driving up Glendale avenue, just above Third street, a two-horse runaway team belonging to a Mr. Bullock, dashed around the corner of Third street. Mrs. Merrill saw them coming and hurried her horse ahead, turning into Third street to avoid them. The runaways were close behind and Mrs. Merrill made still another turn to avoid them, this time into an alley, but the excited runaways still followed, overtook the vehicle and dashed squarely into it, the tongue of the wagon they were attached to striking Mrs. Merrill a blow which was fortunately not strong enough to seriously injure her as it might well have done, but knocking her off into the street. Mrs. Carr was also upset and although considerably shaken up suffered no other injury. Mrs. Merrill was rather seriously bruised but on the whole had a narrow escape for her life. The vehicle she was driving lost two wheels and was otherwise damaged. Joe Moreno was driving the runaways when they broke loose. The team has a bad record and it is said this is not the first time that in running away they have endangered the lives of people unfortunate enough to happen to be ahead of them.

LIGHTS FOR EAST HOLLYWOOD.

Forty-three thousand dollars for installation is what the East Hollywood lighting district will pay the Pacific Light & Power Co. for putting posts and lamps at every street crossing in the district and on each street midway from crossing to crossing. This will be equipped with Tungsten lights, each warranted for eighteen months. The price for maintenance will be 7 cents per kilowatt. The Tungsten lamp gives a very strong light at small outlay, and it is believed that the arrangement made will be found economical and more than satisfactory.

We clip the above from the Citizen. It is of interest to Glendale as showing what a neighboring community is willing to pay for the lighting of its streets. In Glendale it is proposed to obtain the same results as outlined above and to own and control the system after we have paid for it, which seems to us to promise more satisfactory results, with only a slight and possibly no increase in cost.

MASS MEETING TO INSTRUCT TRUSTEES.

There was a fair attendance at the school meeting called last Monday evening at the city hall for the purpose of instructing the trustees of the grammar school district in regard to the calling of an election for the purpose of voting on a bond issue with which to buy three additional lots in the rear of the 6th street school. Mr. Blackburn presided at the meeting. Mr. Wilnot Parcher presented a resolution, the adoption of which was duly moved and seconded, requesting that the trustees call an election on the question of issuing bonds for the purpose of securing the property, the price of which is $3800; street work assessments of some $200 unpaid. A rather warm discussion ensued, the motion being opposed by Mr. Emery and others. When it finally came to a vote, the motion prevailed by a small majority, and as a result the call for the election will soon be issued.

CARD OF THANKS.

On leaving the services of the Glendale and Eagle Rock railway I thank the good people of Eagle Rock and Glendale for the kindness they have shown me while here. It is greatly appreciated and I must say Eagle Rock and Glendale are the pleasantest places I ever saw and I also thank the editor for the boost he gave me at the beginning of my services with the Glendale and Eagle Rock railway. I only hope that I may have an opportunity to return the kindness which has been showed me.

Items of Interest

Glendale Market for the best in the meat line.

Our Eagle Rock correspondent was in error last week in stating that "Mrs. Patterson" of Glendale had received a seriously sprained ankle, in stepping off the car there; the unfortunate lady was Mrs. Richard Addison. In this connection it seems proper to remark that something in the nature of a platform should be provided for the car there at once.

Best ever: Those gaited saddle horses at Central Stables, Fourth and Mary.

Everything first class at Glendale Market.

Mr. R. J. Perkins has moved his repair shop from Third and Glendale avenue to the new garage and repair shop which has been erected on Glendale avenue below Fourth street by Dr. Deput and will combine forces with that gentleman in the new venture.

Mr. R. J. Perkins has moved his machine and repair shop from 303 Glendale avenue to the new garage, No. 428 Glendale avenue, where he will continue the same line of business and will be glad to see his former patrons.

The Glendale Market wants your trade. Better see them before ordering.

The world moves; so does Offutt. If it is your move, call him up at Central Stables. Home 812; Sunset 3143.

While out looking up items this week the reporter called upon Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Ebble of Campbell street, North Glendale. Mr. Ebble is a Yale graduate and had been in Los Angeles the previous night to join with his alumni in a greeting to President Taft. He came here from New Jersey a year or so ago for the benefit of his health and went into the chicken business with an industry and intelligence which has produced good results and promises well for the future. Mr. and Mrs. Ebble are enthusiasts on the subject of Glendale and its prospects.

If you want your horse to have a nice roomy stall and dirt floor, board him at Central Stables, Fourth and Mary.

REAL ESTATE.

Tupper & Company report the sale of the two places belonging to Mr. F. M. Beers, one on the corner of Third and Belmont to F. E. Foster of Hollywood for $3100, and the property next the Presbyterian church on Cedar street, to Mr. Geo. Butterfield for $2600.

THE BURBANK RAILROAD. The people of Burbank are endeavoring to get together in order to avail themselves of the latest offer of Mr. L. C. Brand to build a railroad from the end of the Pacific Electric near Casa Verdugo to that place, for which he asks $40,000 and a right of way. The new route is lower down from the foothills than the one over which so much time has been ineffectually spent. The eastern terminus will probably be in the neighborhood of Stocker street, thus avoiding the pull up the Kenneth road as originally planned.

Glendale, Cal., October 16, 1909

Monrovia is having a census taken preparatory to being raised to the rank of a fifth-class city, which requires a population in excess of 3500 people.

Notwithstanding the injury done to this section by the fool members of the state board of equalization, we do not notice that state division is being insisted upon in many quarters.

Somebody who had a curiosity to know, has been looking up the records of the war department at Washington bearing upon the subject and has discovered that Peary during all the years of his polar experience, one short interval excepted, has been drawing his regular pay of $4500 per year. His last voyage was covered up on the records as an "assignment to take observations in Greenland and Grantland." Uncle Sam having paid for the pole, should certainly be allowed to claim it!

GETTING MOST OUT OF LIFE.

Make yourselves nests of pleasant thoughts. None of us yet know, for none of us have been taught in early youth, what fairy places we may build of beautiful thought—proof against all adversity. Bright fancies, satisfied memories, noble histories, faithful sayings, treasure-houses of precious and restful thoughts, which care cannot disturb, nor pain make gloomy, nor poverty take away from us—houses built without hands, for our souls to live in.—John Ruskin.

We regret to note that the "knocker" is still alive and doing business in Glendale. Complaints come from more than one source to the effect that deals about to be consummated have been interfered with and prevented by the meddlesome individual alluded to. In one case the damage was of such a nature as to be a real injury to the city at large, and the interference was based on an absolute untruth. A case of this kind is one that lays the offender liable legally for damages, and it behooves the purveyor of libelous statements to use some caution in regard to his utterances.

The prohibitionists are rejoicing over the fact that "the temperance sentiment is growing" in the United States; which is certainly something to rejoice over, but our friends who are advocates of the prohibitory theory as applied to the liquor traffic, should not lay the flattering unction to their souls that this very desirable growth is due to their efforts more largely than to the universal increase of knowledge and to the constantly increasing influence of common sense on the actions of mankind which is the result of that increased knowledge. The evidence constantly accumulates that the world is growing better, or that at least it is laying aside many of the old-time evils that afflict it, and let us hope, is not putting on new ones to a serious extent.

GLENDALÉ AS AN EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

Property owners on East Fifth street who were told by the agents of the horticultural commissioners that the supervisors had appropriated the sum of $1000 to pay owners of trees for any that might be killed by the experiments carried on for the extermination of the black aphids, are wondering what has become of the fund which is now reported to be exhausted before any Glendale owners of dead fruit trees have seen any of it. Glendale seems to have been used by the commission as an experimental field for the work preliminary to working out the salvation of Lankershim where the aphids are reported to be exterminated and no trees killed. The experiments in this section resulted in the killing of about fifty per cent of the trees treated by cyanide at the roots and the track of experimenters is marked by dead trees or holes in the ground where they once stood.

OUR NEW HOLIDAY.

The pulisant and likewise complaisant legislature of the state of California, at its most recent session, yielded to the beseechments of employees in public offices, school teachers, bank clerks, etc., and created a new holiday in which the overworked of all sexes might theoretically find relief from effort. Lacking modern up-to-date sure-enough heroes yet in the flesh or put recently departed from it, they dug out from the long-ago past in which his bones uncertainly repose, about all that is left of him, the name of Christopher Columbus, and set it on high to adorn and excuse a modern holiday! No one envies him this tardy recognition, any man whose fame has been kept green for four centuries, deserves occasionally more than a passing thought and possibly the tribute of a day apart. But why Columbus in particular? Where will the thing end? Whenever the members of the California legislature wish to popularize themselves by creating a holiday, they are liable to do it hit or miss and there is no knowing whose memory we may be called upon to honor next by closing up our front doors. Succeeding legislators generations hence may pick from the antique records the names of some of us who at that time will not care to be disturbed and insist upon making clay heroes of us. The thing ought to stop right now!

AN URGENT NEED.

Already the tide of travel is turning toward Southern California and it is estimated that there will be twice or three times as many tourists here during the coming winter, as there were last year. It is a matter for serious regret and a great loss to our community, that we have not adequate and homelike accommodations for strangers. Glendale's one hotel will be filled to overflowing as soon as the season begins and visitors who would like to stay awhile in our valley, and a good proportion of whom would become home builders here, will be turned back to congested Los Angeles. A tourist hotel in this section with pleasant grounds attached, would, if under an intelligent and experienced manager, be well filled during the greater part of the year, and be an asset of the greatest value to our valley. Hotels of this character cater to a class of people who are particularly necessary to the successful upbuilding of a community. Glendale, Tropic and vicinity comprises a section that has peculiar merits and great advantages, such as appeal particularly to the home-seeker. We are fortunate in being located near to a large city and yet nearer to the mountains, with the ocean obtainable in a little more than an hour's time, but comparatively few of the visitors to Los Angeles know that we exist, or if they do know it, are limited in their knowledge to the glimpses obtained as they pass by. And the railroad company that carries the most of them here for a flying visit, whisks them back just as promptly after the attainment of Casa Verdugo! That we continue to grow so rapidly under existing conditions, has this merit that it proves the possession of inherent attractiveness.

THE VISIT OF THE PRESIDENT.

Uncle Sam's hired man, the overseer of his vast estate, has passed this way in looking over the territory temporarily placed in his charge. It was not altogether a pleasure trip, although we hope that he got abundant pleasure out of it, enough to repay him for the great expenditure of mental and physical effort that he was compelled to make. But it was a part of the day's work and necessary to the best performance of his high duty as a servant of the people. William H. Taft is probably one of the best informed men of our time, but if he possessed a hundred fold more knowledge of men, measures and things than he has been able by a life of intelligent diligence to acquire, he would necessarily by reason of the limitations of our human nature, still fall short of the absolute wisdom with which a man needs to be endowed if he would always do the right thing.

The president's journey to the Pacific coast must have been crowded with new and we hope correct impressions of existing conditions, all of which must enable him the better to perform the duties of his high office. Not only does he and the people at large acquire benefit from his additional knowledge of the vast domain entrusted to his care, but the general expressions of confidence which he has received as he journeyed must add greatly to his own confidence in the people which he must in return give and in giving receive encouragement in the performance of his duty. As for Los Angeles she performed well her part in his reception, and the result all around must be one of satisfaction and increased good will. Mr. Taft has come and gone, leaving behind him in the minds of the thousands who caught a glimpse of him as he passed, an impression of a man filled with kindness to his fellowmen and an earnest desire to be of service to them.

LEMONS AND THE TARIFF.

The enthusiasm generated in the bosom of the California lemon producer over the increased tariff on lemons, has received a chill that strikes down through the marrow of his backbone and settles in his pocketbook. After having hastened to express their satisfaction with the valiant efforts (?) of their California delegation in Congress, particularly the railroad part of it, they have had thrust upon them the painful intelligence that there was no real opposition to the increase that amounted to anything. It was down on the tariff program that the rate on lemons should be increased, not for the benefit of the lemon grower, but for the enrichment of the railroad company, for swiftly upon the heels of the messenger bearing the good news of the increase to the lemon producer, came the announcement that the railroad companies had advanced their rate on lemons 15 cents per hundred weight! The California lemon grower is now sure of just one thing as a result of the increased tariff on foreign lemons, and that is that it will cost him 15 cents a hundred (or about 12 cents a box) more than he paid before to get his fruit to the Eastern market. Now, if he was sure that he would receive 35 cents per hundred more for his product, he might contribute the increased freight rate more cheerfully, but he is sure of nothing of the kind. The inconsistent newspapers who favored a decrease in import rates generally, but favored an increase on lemons in particular, on account of their pretense of favoring the consumer, argued that the tariff would not increase the cost to the consumer, it would only result in keeping out of competition with the California product, the inferior grade of imported lemons. A peculiar argument, it is true, but one that was cheerfully swallowed by the consumer of such stuff. It might have been answered by the argument that there is a class of consumers in Eastern cities who have to have cheap lemons or none, and the cheaper grades being kept out would result in a decreased demand which would offset any advantage to the grower by reason of the increased tariff. Perhaps it might not be amiss to suggest this idea to the grower now over which he may cogitate in hours of idleness, if not of ease. We believe that an increase in the lemon tariff was a mistake, an evidence of greed and not of judgment. The tariff of one cent a pound, won after a real contest a few years ago and at that time conceded to be satisfactory, is a reasonable one and a fair measure of the difference in cost of production between the Mediterranean countries and California. If California cannot make lemon growing a success with that amount of governmental protection, then no conceivable tariff can make the industry here a success. One of the results of the increased tariff is to increase the acreage planted in lemon trees and to encourage at least some people who ought to keep out of the business to go into it and so compete with their neighbors. The business of the lemon producer depends in a marked degree upon those qualities which create success in every field of useful production; industry and intelligence. A business that has to be bolstered up by an unreasonably high tariff, is an economic waste and cannot long prosper. But the lemon business does not have to be so supported and in looking to the tariff for success the growers are wasting time and doing themselves an injury. The causes of failure, if failure comes, will be found elsewhere if intelligently sought.

TAFT ON LABOR.

(Correspondence.)

Editor Glendale News:

I note your comments on Taft's labor speech at Chicago. I think you make the mistake with him of looking at but one side and that is the side with those who reap the advantage of the present method of treating labor as any other commodity. Trafficking in it, as you would in pork or lumber, you overlook the fact that the corporation or individual who owns the jobs have altogether the advantage over the men who have simply nothing but their labor power to sell, and are compelled to compete with foreigners from all parts of the earth, and sell it for any price in order to live. If you analyze Taft's contention it is simply this: that the employer should have the right to buy labor as cheap as possible; and that means reducing labor to the lowest point of existence; namely, enough of their earnings left them so that they may live and reproduce. This they have to do or else there would be no laborers to exploit. In proof that this picture is not overdrawn we have but to look at the conditions of all the European countries. And we are traveling rapidly in the same road that brought the older countries to this condition. That labor, which as Francis Willard says, creates everything good and makes life worth living should be so bought and sold regardless of man's natural rights, regardless of life and liberty, is a tenet that cannot be maintained, and is the very antithesis of Christianity. This right to force wages to the lowest point that Taft is such a stickler for, forces such horrible conditions on the workers that even the most ignorant and unorganized foreigners will rebel as witnessed in the strike at McKeys Rocks, Pennsylvania. If Taft had given utterance to truths, which Lincoln expressed in a labor speech, that the right to labor and the producer of that labor was as sacred as the right to life, he would have created a still greater sensation and incidentally spoiled his chances for the next nomination.

R. GILHOUSEN.

(The point made by Mr. Taft need not be misunderstood as it seems to be by Mr. Gilhouse. It is simply this, that the individual has the inherent right to buy labor when the laborer wishes to sell it, or to sell it when he has it to supply, at a price agreed upon between buyer and seller. This is individual liberty.—Ed.)

ALCOHOLIC MEDICATION.

Snake Bites.

Speaking of snake bites in the Prohibition column a few weeks ago, I quoted a large number of eminent authorities to show that whisky is one of the worst things that can be put into a person who has been snake bitten, having the effect to promote the action of the poison, rather than to delay or neutralize its action, as is generally supposed; and that many who have been supposed to have died from snake poison have, in fact, rather, died from the whisky that was given them as a remedy, and I spoke in that article of the specific anti-venoms, or poison antidotes that have been prepared from of the different species of serpents. But the objection to them is that they are so specific—that is—each different species of snake requires a different anti-venene for the cure of its bite; and so one who is to be exposed to a large assortment of species of serpents would need to carry with him a large assortment of anti-venenes. It might not be as easy either to procure a supply of the various anti-venenes at every little drug store as it is to get poor whisky.

But for the benefit of those who may sometimes be exposed to danger of snake bites, I will here give the directions that are given for those who may unfortunately be bitten.

First—Enlarge the wound so as to promote free bleeding, washing, soaking, and even sucking the wound (which may be done with safety, providing the mucous membrane, inside of the mouth, is unbroken, and the matter thus taken into the mouth is instantly spit out), so as to draw out in this manner as much of the poison as possible. Second—Also use a solution permanganate of potash, both as a wash and internally; this remedy is said to be effective for the bite of all kinds of snakes except those said to be found in the boots, for which the only remedy is teetotal abstinence, reinforced by prohibition, with a Prohibition Party in power to enforce it. Mr. J. H. Wells of Glendale, who has lived many years in Florida, where venomous snakes, such as rattlesnakes, moscasins, massasaugas, etc., abound, informs me that during all the years he was there, he never heard of but three cases of death from snake bites—and these were cases in which permanganate of potash was not at hand or was not used. This proves that liquor is far more dangerous than venomous serpents. Permanganate of potash is a remedy that it would be well for every family to keep on hand, as it has many other uses besides as a remedy for snake bites, being a specific for all kinds of blood poisoning, and a most valuable disinfectant. (I hope the doctors won't get after me for giving a prescription.)

Ammonia is also said to be a first-class remedy for snake bites, used both externally and internally. As everybody knows, it is also a powerful stimulant, and it may well be employed in the cases in which for lack of knowledge or lack of thought alcoholic preparations of one kind or another are now used.

Uses of Alcohol in Medicine.

It is contended, however, by many, and sincerely so no doubt by most of those who so hold that medical science requires the use of alcohol—that it would be inconvenient, if not impossible to do without it. One of the most important uses to which alcohol is put in medicine is as an extractive, that is as means for getting out the medicinal substance contained in the plants of the Materia Medica. But these all, except in case the medicinal properties are combined with resinous or gummy substances, can just as well be extracted with water, which comes nearer than anything else to being a universal solvent. And for the gummy and resinous plants, either may be used, or a 10 per cent solution of acetic acid. These methods are now in use by many up-to-date physicians who prepare their own medicines. As is well known water extracts are largely used in medicine and it is claimed that alcohol is necessary as a preservative, to make the preparation keep in other words. But physicians inform me that it is much better to make up the extract when required, and use it fresh, than to make it up and keep it. Besides, if necessary to keep it, it may be preserved by the addition of sugar, glycerine, acetic acid solution, or some of the essential oils. If some one should object that these preservative substances might injuriously modify the action of the remedy, it may be answered, and so may alcohol, for alcohol is no doubt a powerful drug with a specific action of its own.

So much for the allopathic branch of the art of healing.

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

October 17th, 1909.

(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. R. Linscott, D.D.)
Paul a Prisoner Before Felix. Acts xxiv.

Golden Text—Herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men. Acts xxiv:16.

Verses 1-9—When a high priest, or a distinguished preacher, has fallen away and espouses a bad cause, how should he be estimated?

This man Tertullus was much in the position of a modern lawyer, can you conceive it probable or possible, that he could be a consistent Christian and yet hold a brief against Paul?

If a rich unscrupulous man has a law suit against a well-known good man, why should a Christian lawyer not accept the case for the prosecution?

Will an honest lawyer, or an advocate of any cause, use false evidence to gain or advance his cause?

What accusations did they bring against Paul, and what part of the evidence, presented to Felix by Tertullus, was true and what part untrue?

Apart from the morality of lying, what good, or evil, does a lie accomplish for the liar or his cause?

Verses 10-21—Does a good cause ever need false evidence to strengthen its position, and if not, why not?

Read Paul's defence critically, and see if you can find any false statements and if so, say what they are.

Contrast the compliments paid to the governor by Tertullus and Paul, and state wherein Paul excels, both in truth and in skill.

What points did Paul urge in his defense to the accusations against him?

What so called heresy did Paul admit of?

What is to-day "heresy" and what is "orthodoxy"?

What is implied in "having a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men" and how can such a condition be brought about?

How does Paul show in his defence that the heresy they accuse him of, is the Jewish doctrine which they have forsaken?

Verses 22-23—Who was Lysias, the chief captain that Felix wanted to examine, and what part had he taken in this matter?

Verses 24-25—Why did Felix send for Paul?

Is it probable that Felix was sincerely investigating the Christian religion?

Apart from the person of Christ, what are the chief things which Christianity stands for? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

What is Christ himself the embodiment of in his personal character?

What made Felix tremble when Paul urged upon him righteousness and the judgment to come?

Would Felix likely have become a Christian if he could have kept on in his sin?

Verses 26-27—What part does money generally play in preventing successful adults from becoming Christians?

When a man trembles on account of his sins, does that necessarily add anything to his credit?

What was a besetting sin of Felix and how would you size up the character of any man that wants to be bribed to do right?
